SHERROD BROWN
Secretary of State

To the Citizens of Ohio:

It is with pleasure that I publish this update of Ohio election history known as Ohio Election Statistics.

The numbers contained in this publication are not just numbers; they are the decisions made by voters on critical issues and choices for leadership in Ohio. As such, they provide the basis for interested individuals to better analyze our state and national history.

This familiar volume is one of the many publications distributed by the Secretary of State designed to provide information and better understanding of our elections system. May it serve you well.

Sincerely,

Sherrod Brown

[a] A corrected listing for elections from 1803 through 1828 was provided in 1986 by Dr. Donald J. Ratcliffe, Senior Lecturer in History, University of Durham, Durham, England.

[b] For the years 1803-1828, the "total" column includes the votes of counties which either failed to report on time or, for some technical reason (other than fraud), had their votes disallowed. In 1803, for example, at least 395 votes were cast for three Federalist rivals to Tiffin, but were not officially recorded.

[c] From 1803 to 1850 the Secretary of State was elected by the General Assembly.

[d] The vote given in Presidential elections is that for the most popular electoral candidate on each ticket. Before 1824 the electoral candidates on a party's ticket did not all receive the same number of votes, while occasionally (as notably in 1812) there was more than one ticket in favor of a particular candidate. Hence the total vote reported for Presidential elections from 1804 thru 1820 represents the minimum number of voters needed to produce the spread of votes across all the candidates for elector.

[e] In 1807 the General Assembly initially recorded 5,927 votes for Meigs and 4,438 for Massie, but nearly half the votes were then rejected on technical grounds.

[f] Older editions of this bluebook record 2,215 votes for John Quincy Adams in 1820. However, there is no independent evidence that Adams was a candidate in this election, and the 2,215 votes were probably cast for the most popular of the many unsuccessful candidates for elector, who probably all supported Monroe.

[g] By the 1820s all candidates in Ohio called themselves Democratic Republicans (or Republicans or Democrats). From 1827 onwards, new parties appeared, one following Andrew Jackson which in 1830 took the name Democrat, the other following J. Q. Adams and Henry Clay which became known as the National Republican and then the Whig Party.

ERRATA SHEET
FOR
Ohio Election Statistics
1985-1986

Note to the Reader

Enclosed are Errata sheets for pages 114-116 and 126-143 of Ohio Election Statistics 1985-1986, correcting errors in the 1986 General Election reports.

The revisions for pages 114-116 correct the numbers of electors voting for counties that were erroneously reported.

The supplementary information for pages 126-143 report political party designations that had been omitted for candidates for Congress, State Senate, and State House of Representatives.

Party designations for candidates for all statewide offices are reported on page 113 of this edition of Ohio Election Statistics.

Please paste these corrected figures over the figures on these pages in your book.

On page 114 the correct figure for 'Number of Electors Voting' for Greene County is [37,670]
